News Around Town

By Mrs. Calvin Robinson

I liked this one:

On the 1st day of summer school, the little boy was telling teacher about his dog.

"What kind of dog is it?" asked the teacher.

"Well, he's a mixed-up kind," replied the small owner. "Sort of a cocker scandal." —Quote.

Thanks to Miss Emma Smith for bringing a large gourd this week. The "handle" measures 22 inches. Miss Emma tells me that she often makes bird houses out of them. I am collecting a few for our little basement "museum."

Someone has suggested the name —Monroe Street, for the new street opened up recently in the vicinity of the residence of Mrs. Don Moses off Church St. Seems all right to me. What do you think?

Schools will open next week — seems that the summer has flown by. We welcome the teachers and students back. Will help to pep up things "Around Town." On my way home the other evening, I stopped to watch foo-ball practice for a few minutes. Fo-tball is my favorite sport, and we always look forward to the high school and the college games. And we have heard the A. H. S. cheerleaders at practice, too.

Very Likely

Dr. Hertz.- Coy Pigg's condition is extremely grave.

Reverend Smoke.- That's very strange. I thought he only had a cold.

Dr. Hertz.- He did, but then he took all the remedies his friends prescribed.

Veterans Starting School

Korea veterans planning to start school this fall under the Korean GI Bill were urged by the Veterans Administration to file their applications now, to beat the last-minute rush when schools open their doors.

VA said it expects some three-quarters of a million veterans to be in schools and training establishments this fall term. By applying early, veterans can help prevent delay in processing their papers, VA pointed out.

Application forms may be obtained at the nearest VA office. The completed application, along with a photostat or certified copy of the veteran's separation paper, should be sent to the VA Regional Office of the State.

To help school - going veterans maketheir arrangements in advance, VA issued a check-list of steps to be taken before they enroll.

The first item is choice of a goal and of a training program that will lead to the goal. Since the law allows a veteran only one change of program, VA explained that he should make sure that he chooses correctly.

The second item is for veterans who are not sure about their GI training scale. They may request vocational counseling to help arrive at a sound choice.

The third point cautions veterans to be sure the course they plan to be sure they plan to take has been GI approvide in the state in which the school is located. This information is available from the veteran's Regional Office, but not from VA headquarters in Washington.

Gossip

Gossips have been catalogued in three different types: the vest-button type—always popping off; the vacuum-cleaner type—always picking up the dirt; the linament type —they rub it in. —Automotive Service Digest.

Homemakers Items

Do you find mold and fermentation troubles on some of your home-made jellies?

VPI nutritionists say storage could be the cause. The storage place may not be cool or dry enough. Under these conditions, the best paraffin seal and lid may not give enough protection.

Try putting your jelly in sterilized canning jars with airtight seals, the same precaution as for canning. Other causes of spoilage are failure to sterilize the glasses and imperfect sealing with paraffin.

Electric fans are important items during hot summer days. VPI home economists suggest given them proper care to keep them in good operating order and insure a longer life.

There is little about a fan to get out of order if it is kept clean and oiled according to manufacturer's instructions.

Avoid falls or bumps that might bend the fan blades or the guard. When you clean the fan blades, be careful not to spring or bend them.

Be sure the fan is disconnected from the outlet when you clean or oil it, and not just turned to "off." It is easy to hit the switch and turn it on, and cause a serious accident.

Some small portable fans have one place to lubricate; others, two places. These places are at the end of the motor. When you use fans continuously each day, oil them as follows: Use 1 or 2 drops daily if one oil hole is provided; use 2 or 3 drops weekly if two oil cups or holes are provided; if the fan has wick oilers, fill the cups with light grade oil once a year.

Ever wonder how much chicken there is in the chicken pie you buy?

Beginning September 1, at least 14 per cent of cooked meat, or 25 per cent deboned raw meat, will be required in chicken or turek pies inspected and labeled by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Clothes that fit you properly are a must if you are to look your best. It is surprising how many women don't know their correct dress size.

Unless you have an unusual figure problem there is a stock size that will fit you perfectly, or almost so.

Junior sizes—seven, nine eleven etc.—are created for the youthful figure. The lines are shorter, arm openings, and neck openings are smaller.

There are styles for the small, same size lines as the junior clothes but are more mature in style.

The regular sizes — ten, twelve, fourteen, etc., are cut for the average size figure. More women fall into this group than any other. It is the most desirable group to be in as you have a much larger choice of clothes.

Then, there is another group of sizes designed for the mature, somewhat heavy figure. Lastly, there are a number of clothes houses that design for the really stout figure.

Investigate and decide exactly what group you are in. Never buy a dress or suit which will require extensive alterations. It is always a mistake. No matter how lovely you think the dress is, remember, you will look much smarter in a dress, not quite so pretty, if it fits.

DOUBLE PAYOFF

Denver, Col.- A witness at a Federal tax evasion trial had no trouble recalling the amount of a payment he said he made as a slot machine payoff to the defendant. The man said he tucked the money in the watch pocket of his trousers, then forgot and sent the pants to the cleaners. When the pants came back, the $470 was gone and he had to dig up another payment of the same amount.

BOY, 6, SHOOTS GIRL, 2

Dansville, N. Y.1 Dewey Richey, 6, found a 44-40 caliber hunting rifle in a corner at the home of his playmate, Vanessa Finch, 2, where the children were playing alone. While it is not certain whether the gun was loaded first or whether the boy found a cartridge and loaded it himself, the gun went off and the lead struck Vanessa in the chest. She died instantly.

HIS COMPLAINT

Minneapolis, Miss. — Stopping to watch a swimming muskrat, George Shabatura, 11, became bogged in soft mud. It required the efforts of a rescue squad, a fire department ladder company, and park board rescue squads to pull George from the mud. George's only complaint after rescue was that the whole commotion made him imss his favorite TV show.

Politicians are necessary in a country which permits the people to go to the polls.

HIGHWAY OFFICIALS MEET IN ROANOKE

The fifteenth annual convention of the Southeastern Association of State Highway Officials will be held at the Hotel Roanoke in Roanoke, September 5 - 7, the State Highway Department announced today. It is the first time in 12 years that the association, comprised of highway officials of 12 Southern states, has met in Virginia.

Highlighting the three-day session will be speeches by C. D. Curtiss, commissioner of the Bureau of Public Roads; Hal H. Hale, assistant to the vice-president of the Association of American Railroads; Major General Louis W. Prentiss, executive vice-president of the American Road Builders Association; A. E. Johnson, executive secretary of the American Association of State Highway Officials; and B. P. Mc Whorter, division engineer of the Bureau of Public Roads. There will also be reports from various highway officials heading committee sessions.

The convention gives the Southern states an opportunity to discuss their mutual highway problems, and to reach solutions aimed at benefiting the entire region. The meeting is of particular interest this year since it is one of the first wide-scale highway conferences to convene since Congress approved $25 billion in federal highway aid to the states for the next 13 years. Much of the agenda will be devoted to a discussion of the new federal-state program.

The Wednesday session will open in the Hotel Roanoke's Cavalier Room at 10:00 A. M., with a meeting of the Committee on Commercial Vehicle Sizes and Weights.

Scheduled for the afternoon is a tour of the Lone Star cement plant near Cloverdale, and in the evening a dinner and executive session are planned. The guest speaker at the dinner will be George A. Bowie, author, lecturer and public relations counsel for a tire and rubber company.

VA. ANTIQUES FAIR SET FOR OCTOBER 1-4

The fair, again co-sponsored by the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce and the Virginia Antiques Dealers Association, will be staged this year at the Hotel Jefferson ballroom.

The dealer's association, in a move which it says will assure a fair of "dignity and quality," is limiting this year's participating dealers to 35.

HIGHWAY LITTER PROBLEM STIRS STATES INTO ACTION

It is costing the American public $15 to $50 a mile per year for the clean-up of refuse strewn along the highways of the various states by messy motorists.

So serious has the problem become that 13 states have recently sharpened their penalties for this offense.

One study, conducted through the cooperation of highway departments of 44 states, found the penalties for "litterbugging" vary from practically none in Idaho, which reports "Law not very enforceable; litter increasing each year," to a maximum of $1,000 fine or a year's imprisonment in Georgia, which reports, "a noticeable reduction in this type of offence" since the new law was passed.

In fact, eight of the 13 states which have stepped up their penalties report that the messy, slovenly type of motorist becomes notably neater in his habits when facing stiffened penalties for pig-sty behavior.

A number of highway departments declare in the survey that litterers are difficult to catch, and even if caught, are too often let off with a small fine or a lecture, by local justices.

South Carolina, however. through close cooperation of highway maintenance and highway patrol, arrested 81 trash strewers and convicted 80 of them in the first 12 months of its clean highways program. "We are making some progress," says the South Carolina highway department.

Some half-dozen states report reduction in litter through extensive programs of motorist education by civic organizations, combined in some areas with distribution of litter bags for use in cars, and litter cans along highways and at filling stations, to make it as easy as possible for motorists to "be decent."

Ohio has set up an outstanding example of effective coordination of intensive anti-litter eduaction with tighter enforcement of anti-litter laws, reducing the cost of cleaning up Ohio's state highway system from $621,733 in 1953 to $442,258 in 1954, and to $344,451 in 1955.

Oregon reports a gratifying use by motorists of the litter bags so extensively distributed by civic and governmental organizations, and of the hundreds of litter barrels placed along the highways in 1955. One of the discouraging aspects of dealing with human beings, however, was illustrated by this observation in the Oregon report: "It has been necessary to relocate some of the barrels due to local residents filling them with garbage."

Lexington, Va.- Virginia's newest shrine to Thomas J. "Stonewall" Jackson here is rapidly becoming the repository for his remaining possessions and those of his immediate family, Jay Winston Johns, of "Ash Lawn," Charlottesville, President of the Thomas J. Jackson Memorial revealed today.

Among the acquisitions received by the Foundation this month were twelve additional letters written by him to his daughter, and which are being added to 98 original Jackson letters already donated by his family and friends.

"Practically all of the valuable Jacksoniana known to be in existence has been brought back to Virginia," Mr. Johns said, revealing that it has come from seven states.

Other items just received include Jackson's gold watch chain, a prayer and hymn book used by Jackson when in service at Ft. Hamilton, New York, a mirror he used in his campaign kit during the Mexican War, a snuff box belonging to his brother and part of a Jackson table cloth that has been cut up and divided among his various nieces.

These bring to more than fifty the personal possesins of General Jackson now on display in the only home he ever owned.

Open free to the public, the Jackson residence this year has been visited by more than 16,000 persons. As yet, the house has not been completely restored, and Mr. Johns is eager to obtain donations or loans of authentic pieces of the period to complete this work.
